Comments:

As the Senate Republican Conference leader, I understand, respect, and support the Second Amendment Rights of all citizens to possess firearms. I oppose any efforts by New York State to erode or diminish the purpose of our Second Amendment Rights and continue to combat the limiting of New Yorkers' access to firearms and ammunition. I believe that the gun control efforts pushed by the Democrats in the Legislature will have little to no impact on crime rates. Instead, they will make it more difficult for law-abiding New Yorkers to protect themselves as violent crime surges.

With respect to the impact of civilian firearm ownership on crime rates, it is my position that legal firearm possession has no impact on rising crime rates. Rather, civilian firearm ownership can decrease crime, as the knowledge of a well-armed populace with possession of a legally-owned firearm that can be used in self-defense can prevent crime. It can also significantly limit the damage and destruction that a criminal intends to inflict should they wish to harm innocent civilians.

During my time as New York State Senate Republican Leader, the Senate Republican Conference has repeatedly opposed legislation that would restrict or infringe upon the Second Amendment Rights of New Yorkers. In the 2021 session, the Conference either unanimously or overwhelming voted against the following legislation:

S. 13-A (Kaplan), which banned unfinished frames or receivers

S.14-A (Hoylman), which banned so-called "ghost guns."

S.1048 (Myrie)/S.7196 (Myrie), which created a private right of action and civil right to sue gun manufacturers

S.1235-A (Gianaris), which establishes a ten-day waiting period
